Welcome Back!

Posted by Cobb - 2008/02/01 11:51

Hello everyone! I know this isn't the FootTrails forum that you are used to seeing but hopefully we'll soon have the same great discussions that we've had in the past. If you aren't already registered, I encourage you to do so and help us build this thing back up! I can't say how disappointed we were when the old site data was lost and I certainly do apologize for the downtime. I know that with all the great contributors we had out there we can get this board back up to speed fast and continue to provide great information about backpacking, camping and other outdoor activities that we enjoy. Welcome back to FootTrails!

Hey Everyone,

It is great to be back online....This kinda of reminds of the first day back to school when growing up. I am looking forward to catching up and viewing pictures & stories from recent trips.

Happy Trails,

Glad to have the site back. I missed it a lot. Can't wait until the user level is back to what it was.

I like it. It's about time too. Just kidding. I have been clicking on that link about every week. Waiting.:( : ) :) Glad it's back. Anyone going hiking this Feb?? Work is keeping me tied up until March. Then I'm headed to the Smokies or Big South Fork.

Welcome back Silverjay! I'm glad we had people out there anxious for the site to return. As of right now, I personally don't have any hiking plans for February but I'd like to put a trip together no later than April. It's been quite some time since I've been out. My last trip was to Virgin Falls Pocket Wilderness in May of 2007. After that, I got married, sold a house, bought a house and moved twice. So excuses for not getting in the woods this year very soon are over!

:unsure:

I haven't been out on the trail in almost two years. That's sad, considering I used to get out about twice a month. Draxx/rocksteady, you remember that time I saw you up at Virgin Falls? Yeah, that was the last time I was seen with a pack on. I'm planning on hitting the trail again in March if it doesn't end up turning into a car camping trip. Just need to decide where we're going. Lately, I've gotten into trail riding on my 4-wheeler instead of on foot but that's about to change. I need to get in shape again. Good to see everyone coming back here...Jimmy

I feel Like I'm Back home again?
thanks Chris, jimmy, Charles and all who helped in getting this site back on?
now, if we can only find all those other old farts I used to argue with back on, then I really will feel at home:P

Ever since Chief1 turned me on to Foottrails a few years ago I thought that it was a great 'homey' backpacking site sans the dorks over on one site that shall remain nameless. Cudos to Jimmy for getting it back up & this time I'll buy a Foottrails tee shirt to help promote it.
Was looking forward to Chief1 coming up to WNC to do a little hiking with him. Unfortunately it seems he's doing some 'home improvements.' I might just have to do a solo someplace this weekend where I can hang my HH and chill!

:woohoo: Are you happy to see me or what.

Man is it good to see this back up. Thanks guys...

Although I'm not real happy about that "Fresh Boarder" status and such a low post count. Oh the shame.

B) I have three Boy Scouts in my house. So I go out with the scouts frequently ;) I go with the troop at least once per month, but just on overnight camps.

We (family) were up at Oconee SP in SC this past weekend for the three day weekend. Had a major rain, but had fun in spite of it. I say if you can't have fun camping in the rain, you should stop camping.

Wow halfstack that has been quite some time ago. I have been going out on average about once per month. We went out to Piney River last weekend and are head to Kilmer next weekend. I've gotten into fly fishing over the last year and have been looking mainly for trails where I can combine that with my love of hiking.
